Quanterix Expands into 19,802 SF at 113 Hartwell Avenue in Lexington, MA

Tuesday January 10, 2012, Lexington, MA – Quanterix, a development stage company innovating ultra-sensitive detection systems for use in research and in-vitro diagnostics, has executed a new 19,802-square-foot lease in a recently renovated life science lab building at 113 Hartwell Avenue in Lexington, Mass. The lease represents an expansion of 10,000 square feet from the company's current location at One Kendall Square in Cambridge, Mass. Occupancy is scheduled for April 2012.

Colliers International's team of Tucker Hansen, Joe Flaherty and Ben Coffin represented Quanterix in negotiations with Tom Rango, Stephen Lynch, and Leah Harsfield of King Street Properties, the landlord. Quanterix will be the first tenant in the building.

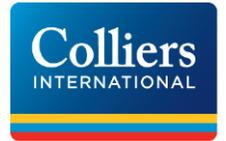

“By relocating from One Kendall Square to 113 Hartwell Avenue, Quanterix will move into a brand new facility designed to fit its specific needs,” said Hansen.

According to King Street Properties' principal Stephen Lynch, “We are pleased to kick off the leasing at 113 Hartwell Avenue with Quanterix. They are exactly the type of innovative company we were hoping to attract.”

Built in 1967, and renovated in 2011, 113 Hartwell Avenue is a one story, 103,000-square-foot Class A lab-ready building located just off of Interstate 95 in Lexington, Mass., approximately 30 minutes from downtown Boston. Nearby amenities include several restaurants, the Boston Sports Club, and the Minuteman Bike Path.
