

Subscribe

Past Issues

Translate ▼

RSS

View this email in your browser

MASSACHUSETTS
LIFE SCIENCES CENTER

Investing in the State of Innovation

MASS
NEXT
GEN

It is with great pride that we relay that the Massachusetts Next Generation Initiative (MassNextGen) has been named a finalist for the 2019 Xconomy Awards in Boston in the “Commitment to Diversity” category. This nomination illustrates the strength of our collaborative effort to ensure greater gender parity in the next generation of life science entrepreneurs. With winners set to be announced later this week, we wanted to use this opportunity to offer our sincere appreciation of the people and partnerships who have made MassNextGen a success.

Together, with our corporate sponsors Takeda, King Street Properties, and Sanofi, we remain committed to supporting promising women-led, life sciences companies, providing critical funding and access to a robust panel of executive coaches to ensure that they have important resources to succeed.

Our team at the Massachusetts Life Sciences Center (MLSC) has leveraged the region's substantial network of seasoned entrepreneurs, investors and life science experts to create an executive coaching network that has proven to be essential for our MassNextGen entrepreneurs. Armed with experiences from investing in, partnering with, and running their own early-stage life science companies, they bring a real-world perspective to the program.

MassNextGen sponsors are committed to making a change in the life sciences ecosystem by supporting women-led life sciences companies. Sponsors have an opportunity to participate in MassNextGen through judging, coaching, and other potential partnerships.

If you are interested in sponsoring the MassNextGen Initiative, please reach out to Jennifer Griffin, Vice President of Industry Programs & Relations.

Read more on the 2019 MassNextGen Entrepreneurs

Read more on the inaugural MassNextGen Entrepreneurs

The MLSC e-newsletter offers the latest events and news in the life sciences ecosystem.
Share it with your network today!

Share

Tweet

Forward to Friend

Copyright (c) 2019 Massachusetts Life Sciences Center, All Rights Reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.